Setsubun - sacred offerings to the divine divide

November 30, 2024 - February 23, 2025 Curated by Karly Boileau With a focus on a slow-making process through a Japanese heritage craft practice, Hitoko Okada's major solo exhibition explores new ceramic and textile works that critically engage with and question the global fashion supply chain as it relates to colonial histories of fast fashion. Her works draw inspiration from geological processes and metabolic evolution of fungi, to apply ancestral knowledge in a present-day context to re-imagine futurisms and ways of being through a queer lens. Stitching Science

October 22, 2024 - March 30, 2025 Cambridge Art Galleries' inaugural pop-up exhibition at Idea Exchange, Old Post

Office, features the work of Guelph-based artist Lauren Wright Vartanian. Her latest work, Stitching Science, merges art and science in 27 intricate diagrammatic embroideries. A culmination of three years of work and countless stitches, these embroideries, each representing a letter of the alphabet, depict scientific concepts in a creative and accessible way. This exhibition coincides with Wright Vartanian's book release, Stitching Science: Exploring Science from A to Z, published by Firefly Books in the fall of 2024. Lauren Wright Vartanian is a multidisciplinary artist currently focusing on textile art. She has a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Drawing and Painting from OCAD University, where she graduated in 2006. She has been creating and selling art under the name Neurons and Nebulas since 2016. Her work blends art and science in a way that is fun and educational, but also beau

Community Desk: TEAO

Transforming mental health care in Canada, one community at a time. Learn more about our services and initiatives, and find out how you can contribute to a healthier, supportive Ontario. About our Partner Wounds 2 Wings Trauma and Embodiment Association of Ontario (TEAO) is committed to creating an inclusive, supportive environment for mental health and trauma recovery. Our mission is to provide immediate, community-based mental health services, offering mental health assessments, crisis support, and connection to vital resources. TEAO advocates for a shift in mental health services towards early intervention, especially for vulnerable populations, with the goal of preventing hospitalizations and reducing emergency services. Our team works to deconstruct power dynamics, destigmatize mental health, and promote healing through embodiment practices. Together, we aim to build a resilient community where individuals thrive and support each other toward long-term wellness. By engaging the commun

Sleep Well: Strategies for a Restful Night

Sleep is important to your overall health. Learn tips and tricks to help you get a better night's sleep. This presentation, compiled by the Waterloo Wellington Self-Management Program, provides a comprehensive overview of sleep and its importance for your overall health and well-being. It covers the basics of sleep, including an overview of the circadian rhythm, sleep drive, and the stages of the sleep that happen through the night. We'll also learn about common sleep disruptors and discuss practical tips to help you achieve a better night's sleep. About the Speaker Danielle Hughes, RRT, is the program coordinator for the Waterloo Wellington Self-Management Program. With a background in sleep, respiratory care, and health promotion, Danielle is passionate about promoting self-management skills for health and helping others live a well-balanced life. She's also a certified 200-hour yoga teacher and actively teaches classes part time in the Cambridge area. Setsubun - sacred offerings to the divine divide

November 30, 2024 - February 23, 2025 Curated by Karly Boileau With a focus on a slow-making process through a Japanese heritage craft practice, Hitoko Okada's major solo exhibition explores new ceramic and textile works that critically engage with and question the global fashion supply chain as it relates to colonial histories of fast fashion. Her works draw inspiration from geological processes and metabolic evolution of fungi, to apply ancestral knowledge in a present-day context to re-imagine futurisms and ways of being through a queer lens. Stitching Science

October 22, 2024 - March 30, 2025 Cambridge Art Galleries' inaugural pop-up exhibition at Idea Exchange, Old Post Office, features the work of Guelph-based artist Lauren Wright Vartanian. Her latest work, Stitching Science, merges art and science in 27 intricate diagrammatic embroideries. A culmination of three years of work and countless stitches, these embroideries, each representing a letter of the alphabet, depict scientific concepts in a creative and accessible way. This exhibition coincides with Wright Vartanian's book release, Stitching Science: Exploring Science from A to Z, published by Firefly Books in the fall of 2024. Lauren Wright Vartanian is a multidisciplinary artist currently focusing on textile art. She has a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Drawing and Painting from OCAD University, where she graduated in 2006. She has been creating and selling art under the name Neurons and Nebulas since 2016. Her work blends art and science in a way that is fun and educational, but also beau

November 30, 2024 - February 23, 2025 Curated by Karly Boileau With a focus on a slow-making process through a Japanese heritage craft practice, Hitoko Okada's major solo exhibition explores new ceramic and textile works that critically engage with and question the global fashion supply chain as it relates to colonial histories of fast fashion. Her works draw inspiration from geological processes and metabolic evolution of fungi, to apply ancestral knowledge in a present-day context to re-imagine futurisms and ways of being through a queer lens.
